ARTWORK: Gabriela Garcia & Edi Hernandez

UB&O arrive in Monterrey, Mexico where DJ KING RULY greets them on behalf of SISTEMA LOCAL – Mexico’s Sound System-DJ Production Crew. Their sound is so modern and fresh that it is influencing their brothers across the US border. Music crosses borders and here ‘Up, Bustle & Out’ present the ‘Mexican Sessions’ written between Monterrey Mexico, Kingston, Jamaica New York, USA & Bristol, England.

The L. A ‘Guardian’ newspaper runs a feature on a Mexican Hip Hop producer from ‘CONTROL MACHETE’. His name is Toy Hernandez (now A&R Director @ Universal). He is seen walking the northern state deserts with a Sound System in tow. He is seeking to take CUMBIA to that next level. This is what UB&O achieve with this album: The SOUND SYSTEM fused and rooted in Jamaican DJ-Producer culture, married to the pulsating simplicity of Colombian Cumbia grooves that have grown from the sparky blend of shotguns & accordions.

KING CHANGO’S vocalist BLANQUITO MAN has the headphones on, he hears the Bristol to Brooklyn sound. NYC collective ‘The Fragment Crew’ drop versus mixing English, Spanish with Rastafarian vibes. KING RULY dubs a master trumpet workout from the Sistema Local base...It’s Latin. It’s Hip Hop. It’s Cumbia. It’s new – a modern & revolutionary surround sound.
